

THE DAILY REVIEW

BISBEE, ARIZONA.

"ALL THE NEWS THAT'S FIT TO PRINT"

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Bisbee, Arizona, under act of March 2, 1879.

Published by STATE CONSOLIDATED PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Publishers of THE BISBEE DAILY REVIEW, Bisbee, Arizona, THE ARIZONA DAILY STAR, Tucson, Arizona.

Advertising Rates covering insertion in both papers furnished on application.

Telephone 123

SUBSCRIPTION RATES By Mail, Carrier or Agent. One Month, $1.00. Three Months, $2.50. Six Months, $4.50. One Year, $7.50. (If paid in advance $7.50)

A complete job printing, book binding and ruling establishment. Mining Company Work a Specialty.

Address all communications to THE BISBEE DAILY REVIEW, Bisbee, Arizona.

ARIZONA AS A MARITIME PROVINCE.

Will Arizona be appeased by a seaport, a bite off the northern extremity of the gulf of California, the Andrade concession and a meagre strip of land excised from the northern part of Lower California? Not if we know Arizonians and we think we do. While we're getting, let's get something worth while. Of what use is a seaport unless we have access to it? Arizona would still be a sort of Sancho Panza's island situated many a mile from sea.

We demand, among other things, the navigability of the raging Santa Cruz and the turbulent San Pedro and the establishment of connections between those arteries of commerce and the rolling Gila whose broad and placid bosom shall be plowed by super-dreadnoughts from our naval base in the Gulf of Arizona, to be. We take this occasion further to suggest that the naval supremacy of Arizona will not be firmly established without another base somewhere in the Roosevelt dam. We demand that a permanent squadron be stationed there to be known as the "Intermontane Fleet."

This arrangement, will, of course, necessitate certain improvements of Salt river, but they will have to be made only in one direction—downward. The mere deepening of the channel will do the business. The Salt is already wide enough for all practical purposes—wide enough to hold all the navies of the world at anchor between its junction with the Gila and Evergreen which is the present head of navigation for Colorado salmon and the largest varieties of cat fish.

If Arizona is to be given a coast line and otherwise suddenly to be converted from a remote and desert waste into a flourishing maritime province, let it be done properly and generously. We demand our riparian rights, as well as the littoral legacy into which we are about to come through the exigencies of politics.

THE FAIR WAS FAULTLESS.

The seventh and last "territorial fair" which closed yesterday, eclipsed all its predecessors in many respects, notably, in the attendance which exceeded, day for day, that of any previous fair.

There was an improvement in the character and size of most of the exhibits and in none of them was this improvement more marked than in the live stock department, an improvement which may be easily traced back to the influence of earlier fairs.

The racing program, in the opinion of many, was not quite the equal of that of some of the former Arizona fairs, but that opinion seems to be erroneously based on the fact that there was an absence of a few equine stars, such as have appeared before, Crescens, Log Dillon, Don Patch, Major Delmar and other horses which were not really in the program, but which were there for exhibition rather than for performance. There was this year a great number of speed events, nearly all of them exciting and some of them, thrilling.

But one thing about the fair just closed, was the more closely knit relation of the different parts of the territory. Hitherto, many visitors to the fair, coming from a sense of hostility toward Phoenix, which had somehow, rightly or wrongly, failed to earn a reputation for genuine, warm-hearted, disinterested hospitality. In times past it was charged that Phoenix's bump of acquisitiveness was over-developed and it was complained

DEMOCRATIC STATE AND CONGRESSIONAL TICKET

For U. S. Senator's Mark A. Smith, Tucson. Henry F. Ashurst, Prescott.

For Judge of Supreme Court Alfred Franklin, Phoenix. Henry D. Ross, Prescott. D. L. Cunningham, Tombstone.

For Representative in Congress Carl Hayden, Phoenix.

For Governor George W. P. Hunt, Globe.

For Secretary of State Sidney P. Osborn, Phoenix.

For Auditor J. C. Callaghan, Bisbee.

For Treasurer David Johnson, Douglas.

For Attorney General George Purdy Bland, Phoenix.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction C. O. Case, Jerome.

For Corporation Commission F. A. Jones, Phoenix. W. P. Geary, Winslow. A. W. Cole, Douglas.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET

For State Senator C. M. Roberts. W. P. Sims.

For State Representative Samuel B. Bradner. J. M. Ball. George D. Craig. James F. Duncan. W. J. Graham. Carleton B. Kelton.

For Judge of Superior Court Fred A. Satter.

For Clerk of Superior Court J. E. James.

For Sheriff Harry C. Wheeler.

For Recorder Owen E. Murphy.

For Treasurer Frank Ramsey.

For School Superintendent H. H. Hotchkiss.

For County Attorney W. G. Gilmore.

For Assessor E. A. Hughes.

For County Road Superintendent J. J. Benton.

For Surveyor J. S. McNeish.

For Supervisors August Hickey. William Rigg. John Rock.

Warren District Precinct Ticket.

For Justice of Peace. John W. Hogan, Bisbee. Samuel L. Ingo, Bisbee. George R. Smith, Lowell.

For Constable. James L. Gannon, Bisbee. John J. McCrea, Bisbee. L. R. Bailey, Lowell.

that in case of large assemblages in the city, many of its lodging houses and hotel keepers turned out to be strong arm men for the occasion.

We have heard no complaint of such outlaws this year. There may have been isolated cases of extortion, but there has been no hint of an organized bandit.

Thus, from all sides, the fair has been an institution in which Arizonians from all sections may take pride and in the judgment of gentlemen qualified to say, it has far surpassed the average state fair. We hope that the first state legislature will make serious provision for its continuance and growth under the new government.

ARIZONA DEMOCRACY GETS A GOOD START.

The organization of the democratic state committee on Friday was a good beginning for the party in the new state. While it is composed of good, progressive democrats they are not "progressives" in that sense of the word which has of late become inviolable. The gentlemen who will dominate the committee are not disposed to tear things up by the roots.

They are for the most part, men who have taken an active and healthy part in the councils of the party in the past and it was largely due to their wise direction that the democratic party of Arizona has been so uniformly successful.

Cochise county is especially fortunate in its representation in the new organization, in the membership of Messrs. J. J. Bowen, J. R. Henderson and C. R. Howe.

In short, it may be said of the new committee that it is composed of conservative and earnest gentlemen who are genuinely solicitous for the success

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

OUR BARBER.

"You're next," the barber cried, "the weather is it not sir? You'd better try some hairdressing. To cover that bald spot, sir."

The man in looking good this year. Your hair sure needs a trimmings."

"Once over is enough? All right. I saw by Tuesday paper that Germany and France will fight. Guess that's just a bad vapor. The razor hurt you any? No? She's running fine and dandy. Been up this week to see the show? Those girls are sure the candy."

"You like your towels cold or hot? Our outfit might be stronger. An egg shampoo would help a lot. And make your hair last longer. What will you have upon your face? Yes, Cohen's here this season. He's playing in the same old place. This lilac smells quite pleasant."

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

OUR BARBER.

"You're next," the barber cried, "the weather is it not sir? You'd better try some hairdressing. To cover that bald spot, sir."

The man in looking good this year. Your hair sure needs a trimmings."

"Once over is enough? All right. I saw by Tuesday paper that Germany and France will fight. Guess that's just a bad vapor. The razor hurt you any? No? She's running fine and dandy. Been up this week to see the show? Those girls are sure the candy."

"You like your towels cold or hot? Our outfit might be stronger. An egg shampoo would help a lot. And make your hair last longer. What will you have upon your face? Yes, Cohen's here this season. He's playing in the same old place. This lilac smells quite pleasant."

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

"You say I needn't shave your neck. I won't take but a minute. I see they've signed a guy named Peck."

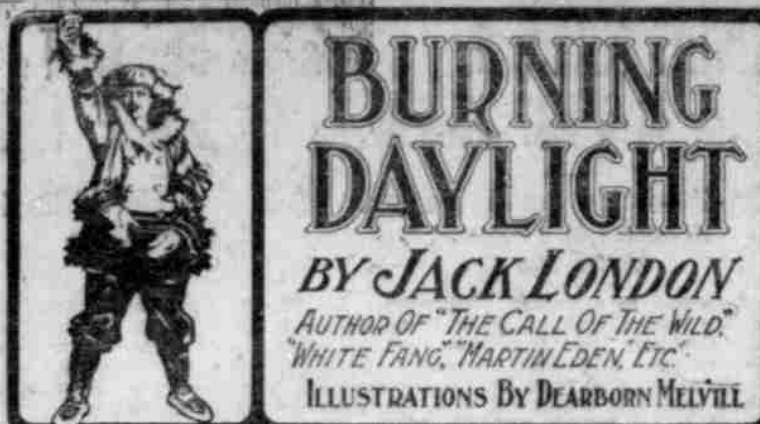

There may be nothing in it. They say Jack Johnson's almost broke."

You comb it wet or dry, sir? Thanks. After while I'll take a smoke. Drop in again. Goodbye, sir."

WRECKING OUR IDOLS.

It seems to be the special delight of the scientists to cause something that we hold sacred to tumble from its pedestal. The latest victim of this sort is Prof. Ferrero of Italy, who has promulgated the statement that Cleopatra was fat, ugly and maniacally and that she was pursued by Marc Antony merely for her money, even as the latter day nobleman with the unpaid laundry bill and the mortgaged chateau seeks the charming American debutante.

The little affair of Marc and Cleopatra was one which should have been left strictly alone. It furnished the one romantic incident in an otherwise sad period of Roman history. Of course some of us have always had our

(Copyright, 1911, by the New York Herald Company. Copyright, 1911, by the Macmillan Company.)

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Harmish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a friendly crowd of miners at the Arctic City Hotel. He is a general favorite, a hero and a pioneer in the new gold fields. The dance leads to heavy gambling in which over $10,000 is staked. Harmish loses his money and his wife but wins the mail contract of the district.